

Hug vase series

Designed by Fabio Vogel, Germany

Hug is a beautiful example of creative ideas that also make sense away from the drawing board. Made from mouth-blown glass using a special process where two glass blowers simultaneously blow into their own moulded forms, the result is two separate tubes that are blown together to become one. This process makes each Hug vase completely unique – and beautiful enough to stand alone as an eye-catching element in your home decor, or as an elegant and distinctive vase for your flowers.

Meet the designer

I work with my hands – always providing me the inspiration for new ideas. The characteristic nature of the materials, which I work with, often show me unique directions to take, allowing me to play and experiment with rather unconventional methods. I absolutely love this creative process and always aspire to bring my ideas to life and realizing them through design results.
